Situation Analysis

Brand Introduction¹

- Cinnamon Toast Crunch (CTC) was released in 1984 with the intention to transform a piece of cinnamon toast into a crunchy and sweet cereal. At its core, the cereal remains relatively unchanged, with formulaic changes made to keep up with modern manufacturing practices as opposed to trying to change the product².
- Today, CTC is attempting to increase revenues by winning over new consumers and maintaining current loyal customers. The brand image originated as a family-friendly logo, with cartoon images of chefs displaying CTC on boxes. CTC moved to create more of a brand personality - placing cartoon faces on pieces of CTC. In recent years, CTC has expanded into collaborations in other sub-categories within the breakfast category, including flavored milk and bacon³.

Industry Overview

- The breakfast food market is a highly fragmented market with several major players operating several major brands without a clear front-runner. The major players and cereal alternatives are ready-to-eat meals (i.e. Jimmy Dean Cereal), pancakes and wheat-breads (bagels, bread, and associated toppings).

PROCESSED FOOD vs PROCESSED FOOD

- Cereal is a more consolidated sub-category than the breakfast food category as a whole, with General Mills - the parent company of Cinnamon Toast Crunch - positioning itself as the leader in the category. That isn't to say there isn't fragmentation, as General Mills faces fierce competition in The Kellogg Company, Post Holdings and others. Ready-to-go corn breakfast cereal shares the largest revenue, taking up 27.3% among the market according to IBISWorld⁴.
- A growing movement away from so-called "processed foods" and foods high in sugar content toward low-calorie, sugar-free alternatives has proven a challenge for certain brands of cereal that rely on high-sugar content as part of their identity and formula. That's amidst a bigger move toward "clean labeling" and prioritizing nutritious food among consumers, which has led General Mills to increase ⁵ the amount of vitamins in its cereals, such as Cinnamon Toast Crunch and Cheerios, by 20%.
- Major retailers⁶ for the category and subcategory are Amazon, Target and Walmart. New players are grocery delivery services like InstaCart and Doordash, as well as delivery services of existing big-box stores like Walmart+. Producers in the market face FDA regulations regarding labels and experience the trend to cater to convenient and healthier needs.
- The cereal market overall is projected to grow significantly over the next few years. The industry is projected to grow from $65.25 billion to $95.32 billion by 2032, according to PR Newswire⁷.

- Consumers are becoming more conscious about sugar content in cereals all while looking for “benefits in cereals. Price is also a big factor as consumers decide what cereal to purchase.
- Among cereals in the sweet breakfast cereal space (non-granola or cereals who's brand revolves around little-to-no sugar), CTC places third-best in low-sugar content. It then ranks fourth overall for whole grain content.
- As seen in the chart on the right, CTC consistently ranks as a cheaper cereal which is a benefit to consumers as inflation rises and consumers grow more cost-conscious. CTC was in the top-10 for price reductions in the period of Jan. 2023 to Feb. 2024 with prices dropping 6% over that period on Amazon.

Consumer Analysis

Primary Target Audience

- Working segment name: Prepping Family Shoppers
- Summary statement: Women who do household shopping aged 25-34 who are new parents or are planning to be parents who are lapsed cereal consumers reentering the category because of their kids. The target audience thinks shopping is a great way for relaxation and thinks they should use advertisements to choose products for their kids. They also prefer using social media like Facebook, Instagram or TikTok. Finally, the primary audience mainly live in Midwest or South regions. According to Simmons Insights, of the group we define, 26.3% of them used Cinnamon Toast Crunch in the last 6 months and are 91% more likely to consume the product. However, we want to focus more on the lapsed group who have high potential to purchase the brand again.
Target audience estimated size: Women aged 25-34 AND think shopping is a great way to relax AND are pregnant OR already a parent AND think advertising helps to choose products to buy for their children AND Visited or used Facebook OR Instagram OR TikTok In the Last 30 Days AND live in Midwest OR South = 1,852,000 people.
- Objective: Capture lapsed Prepping Family Shoppers in the cereal category who are reentering the space on account of having or planning to have children.
- Rationale: While Prepping Families Shoppers may have consumed cereal in the past, having children means they're soon or currently reentering the cereal space and will have to choose a cereal.
- Campaign must persuade Prepping Family Shoppers that when they head to buy cereal in the store for their kids, they should choose CTC.

Consumer Analysis

Secondary Target Audience

- Working segment name: Cinna-Planners (planners = figuring out their lives)
- Summary statement: College students aged 18 to 24. Cinna-Planners prioritize family and use social media, especially Facebook, Instagram or TikTok. The majority of them live in the South or Midwest regions. According to Simmons Insights, the target group is 25% more likely to have Cinnamon Toast Crunch, which showcases great potential for the brand to gain.
- Target audience estimated size: People aged 18-24 AND attend college AND agree that spending time with family is a top priority AND Visited or used Facebook OR Instagram OR TikTok In the Last 30 Days AND live in South OR Midwest = 4,058,000 people.
- Objective: Create long-term brand loyalty with younger consumers who will most likely purchase CTC for their current/future families.
- Rationale: These individuals may or may not be consuming cereal now. By winning them as consumers right now, it will increase the likelihood that when they are at their peak of consumption (as parents of children), they will choose CTC.
- The campaign must persuade Cinna-Planners that they should eat CTC cereal now and in the future as well.
- Campaign creative considerations: Whether this age group is enrolled in college/university, working a 9-5, taking a gap year, married or have children, advertising to all of these different roles can show diversity. Emphasizing that everyone has different walks of life but can come together over a bowl of Cinnamon Toast Crunch is a creative way to advertise the brand.
- Not all family dynamics are the same, but many cereal brands advertise the typical mom, dad, son and daughter family. Some solutions that could help with this are emphasizing all different kinds of women (married moms, single moms, stepmoms, active moms, etc.) can indulge in a bowl of CTC.

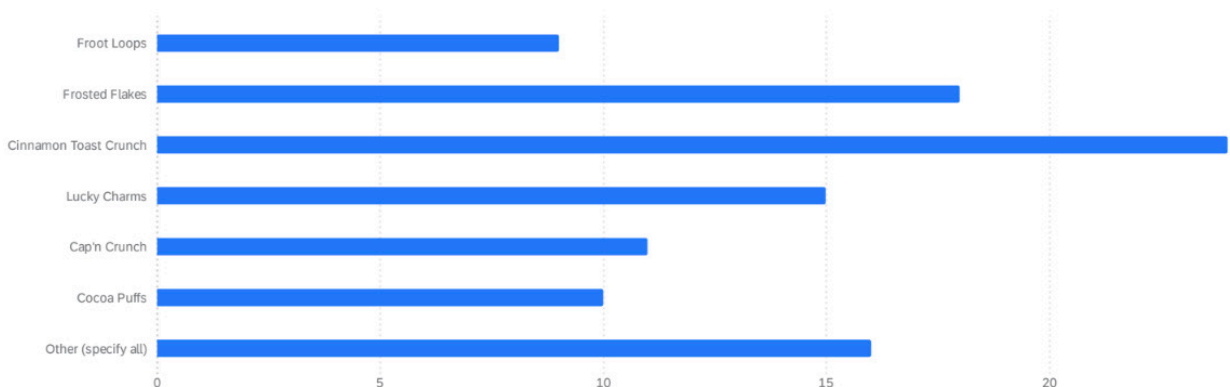

Results of Research

- Our survey was directed toward our target audiences, only selecting women and men between the ages of 18 and 45 to participate. 71% of respondents are either somewhat likely or extremely likely to have children in their future. As JuiceBox Media's campaign is based around attracting parental audiences, this data provides valuable insight into how to frame the campaign.
- 30% of respondents stated that they never purchase cereal as a breakfast food and 37% of respondents rarely do. This is important to understand as JuiceBox Media will need to get a solid understanding of the target audience to draw them in as consumers.
- However, when asked what cereal brand individuals remember eating frequently as children, 47% of respondents chose Cinnamon Toast Crunch. This emphasizes JuiceBox Media's objective that the target audiences are lapsed consumers who have eaten CTC in the past, and we are now attempting to capture their loyalty again as they should purchase the brand for their children.

On a scale of 1-5, with 1 being very unlikely and 5 being very likely, how likely are you planning on having children? 57 ⓘ

Brand Analysis

Product¹⁰

- Cinnamon Toast Crunch is whole grain wheat based cereal with sweet cinnamon swirls.
- Each cereal box highlights the playful and happy personality of the brand - featuring purple, blue, red, and green colors, swirls of milk, and animated faces on individual cereal pieces.
- These friendly boxes contain 12g of sugar per serving, with the general box size coming in 12 ounces.

Price¹¹

- CTC is priced very similarly to other competitors, including Froot Loops, Frosted Flakes and Cheerios.
- An 18.8 ounce box of CTC can be purchased for $4.93 at Walmart, not including tax.

Place

- CTC is sold at most major retail stores (Walmart, Costco) in the US, as well as online distributors like Amazon.
- CTC maintains partnerships with restaurants and brands for certain items (ex: Totino's pizza flavored cereal, Hershey's Cinnamon Toast Crunch).
- CTC is not sold in most organic/natural stores including Whole Foods.

Promotion

- CTC promotes their brand through many channels, including social media (Instagram, Facebook, TikTok) and partnerships with other brands.
- CTC stays up to date with social media trends (ex: memes, Instagram reels), attempting to engage with individuals on a more personal level.
- CTC has developed their brand to include the mascot—featuring individual CTC pieces with faces on them.

Paid Media Analysis

Social Media Platforms

- CTC's advertising strategy focuses on platforms like Facebook, Instagram, and TikTok to engage younger audiences through amusing and animated content. While engagement varies across platforms, TikTok sponsored posts that appear on CTC's official page have generally received higher interaction rates compared to those on Instagram.
- Collaborations: CTC has explored co-branded campaigns with companies such as Hershey's and Totino's Pizza Rolls to boost its presence in niche markets.
- Social Media Advertising: Targeting families and varied audiences, Kellogg's campaigns lean toward combining humor and utility even if they keep a consistent presence.

Television Ads

- To engage kids and parents, animated advertisements have used "Cinnamojis" in lively, entertaining environments like the "Cinnaverse."
- Family-Oriented Television Campaigns: Emphasizing sentimental, relevant events that establish their cereals as mainstay in household life. Campaigns stressing nutritional values will help consumers who are health-conscious.

Retailer Promotion

- Marketing via grocery delivery services like Instacart and internet merchants like Walmart and Amazon.

Digital Platforms

- Especially to involve Millennials and Gen Z on sites like TikTok and Instagram, collaborations with influencers and brand champions help.
- Through partnerships that fit younger families and Gen Z, joyful ads, and TikTok trends, CTC is giving younger viewers top priority. Its reach is limited, though, by intermittent publishing and lack of influencer relationships.
- Rivals admire Kellogg's emphasis on multi-generational family branding and target more directly health-conscious consumers, therefore matching their marketing techniques towards larger audiences.

Paid Media Analysis

Digital Platforms

- CTC should engage family-oriented producers or influencers (Curry Family, other smaller family-friendly influencers) to boost brand trust and awareness among “Prepping Family Shoppers” and “Cinna-Planners.” Whether for parents or college students, influencers can help to better explain how the product fits into daily life.

Health-Focused Advertising

- CTC does not stress whole grain wheat content in its sponsored media ads even though it utilizes has made it a core part of its packaging it. Changing certain CTC’s messages ing to reflect nutritional value will appeal to parents who are health-conscious without sacrificing its fun brand vibe.
- Partnering with streaming services like Hulu or YouTube for tailored marketing could help, particularly for students and working parents who consume material online.
- Regional Advertising: Emphasizing the Midwest and South, customized digital and outdoor campaigns in these areas - such as billboards or local merchant promotions - may help to highlight the brand’s presence where the intended audience lives.

Creative Analysis

Cinnamon Toast Crunch Message

- CTC's message creates the "Cinnaverse", incorporating "Cinnamojis" to show its creative identity. Set in a dynamic world with bright lights, "Cinnaverse" represents consumers' unique experience with the brand while the interactions between "Cinnamojis" leave funny and interesting moments.
- As a foundational structure, "Cinnaverse" explores micro manifestations of consumer engagement. It translates brand image into different stories through strong emotional connections and appeal to wider audiences.
- The message shapes the brand as a perfect choice for new taste and children treats. The commercials target children as a central audience using animations to gain their attention. They often create cute characters and humorous elements to trigger funny responses.
- However, the portrayal of cannibalism between crunch has potential risks for positive brand values.

Case: Cinnamoji Toast Crunch - Battle Royale

- The advertisement is released in both English and Spanish. The scene depicts battles between crunch pieces with various facial expressions to promote a limited-edition product. The approach highlights product variety along with adding personality into the brand , creating playful spirit. Showing animated expressions, it encourages exploration, where consumers can make each crunch like a unique experience.

Creative Analysis

Kellogg's Message

- Kellogg's message blends interesting and functional elements to create a strong identity. Iconic brand manifestations, such as the tiger and crunch characters with fun, expressive faces, add personality to the product.
- While some products emphasize the appeal of taste, others convey the functional benefits of cereal, creating a balance between fun and nutrition. The product has clear labels with health benefits to cater to consumer's healthy desire to buy healthy cereal while maintaining a fun and memorable consumer experience.
- The campaigns are based on real depictions and concrete scenarios, mainly highlighting diverse family interactions to stress the importance of shared moments around the family breakfast table. Placing family values at the heart of its messaging, Kellogg's successfully positions itself as the breakfast choice for everyday life.

Case: Kellogg's Tastes Like Saturday Morning

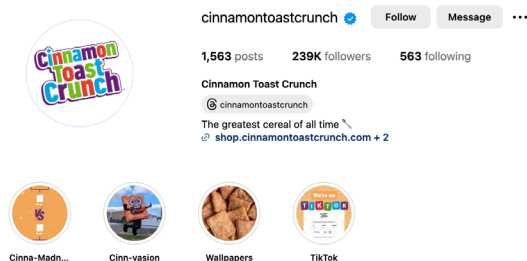

- YouTube
- 6.9 million views

- The depicted campaign promotes Kellogg's iconic products with positioning it in real life scenarios to connect their role in daily family moments. The advertisement uses nostalgic storytelling techniques to shape warmth and familiarity, which again stress its family value. Through expressions of mothers and children sharing moments, the campaign tries to leave a lasting impression as a reliable choice for families.

Public Opinion

- Overall, CTC has a positive reputation amongst consumers.
- 4.8 out of 5 star rating on cinnamontoastcrunch.com¹²
- 4.8 out of 5 star ratings with 29,110 ratings on amazon.com¹³
- 4.6 out of 5 star ratings with 5,121 ratings on walmart.com¹⁴
- A recent article by the Fast Company¹⁵ highlighted the iconic nature of Cinnamon Toast Crunch and its themed products.
- General Mills has been facing high inflation¹⁶ in the USA resulting in a 1% net sale decrease in March 2024.
- CTC has been in the news lately for interesting collaborations with Hershey's and Totino's.
- General Mills has a direct stake in CTC's performance as its parent company. General Mills creates 4 of the 6 top cereals, including CTC¹⁷.

- CTC has 239k followers on Instagram, but most posts see little engagement (ex: a reel posted on April 16th, 2025 got 65 likes, 5 comments, and 1 share). Comments are typically positive.

- On TikTok, they have 405k followers, and see a bit better engagement in terms of views. However, this is probably due to sponsored posts.
- CTC's X (Twitter) account has been inactive since 2022, which is likely a decision to distance themselves from the controversy surrounding Elon Musk's purchase of the company in late 2022. On Facebook, CTC has 1.1 million followers but no real engagement.
- The tone between Instagram and TikTok is pretty similar, and is clearly tailored to the specific audiences the different apps bring. It's an overall silly, goofy tone. Examples of content include funny memes and videos of the "crazy" square character participating in recent trends.

Social Media Analysis

- CTC has fairly inconsistent activity across various social media platforms, such as Instagram, Facebook, TikTok and X (formerly Twitter).
- Posts are scattered over the last few years and have been tailored to a more Gen Z audience using popular TikTok & Instagram micro-trends during those times (see chart below). Current content strategy, however, targets the audience attempting to reach.
- Inactivity on major platforms makes it difficult to broaden target audience and consumer base (see chart below).
- Challenging to establish brand image or loyalty with target audience
- Collaborations with different brands, like Totino's Pizza Rolls, Muddy Buddies from Chex Mix and Hormel.
- Has not recently worked with influencers or celebrities.

Platform	Follower Base	Content Tone	Average Engagement on Posts
Instagram	239k followers	Fun, silly, featuring “crazy squares”, use of memes	300-1k likes per post, 50-200 comments per post
Facebook	1.1 million followers	Family-friendly, use of memes, many videos	20-100 reactions per post, few comments per post
TikTok	405k followers	Videos relating to recent trends, partnering with other products, use of “crazy square” character	20k-80k likes per video, 30-100 comments per video
X (formerly Twitter)	250k followers	Witty, silly, use of memes	500-1k likes and retweets

SWOT Analysis

- Strengths: consistency of flavor, fun/silly online presence, new products/brand extensions.
- Weaknesses: nutrients (12g sugar/serving), lack of social media engagement, limited market research for brand personality.
- Opportunities: higher demand from grocery wholesalers, collaborations with other companies, economic pressure pushing people away from expensive breakfast options (meat, eggs) and shifting to cereal.
- Threats: strict regulation on labeling, shifting price of ingredients (wheat, grains, etc..), market demand for healthier product.

Key Issues & Implications

- Social Media Engagement: CTC maintains a presence on social media, however their engagement with followers is minimal. This is seen through a low like to follower ratio. Social media is an incredible resource for companies to use to increase engagement, improve brand awareness and brand loyalty. It would be wise of CTC to improve their social media presence and create consistent viral content to retain follower engagement.
- Health-Conscious Consumer Movements: Many individuals today are stepping away from artificial ingredients and sugary foods. Many households have completely removed certain brands from their pantries. Specifically, households have moved towards natural/organic alternatives for cereal. CTC is a sugary cereal, however the brand uses a whole grain wheat base, which many competitors do not. CTC can use this as a tactic to capture those health conscious consumers and ensure they don't lose their loyalty to the brand.
- Limited Market Reach from Brand Personality: CTC holds a unique brand image, one that is young at heart. The colorful logo and animated cereal characters bring fun to the brand, however it can be hard for adults and older crowds to relate to this brand personality. CTC could slightly shift their brand image to potentially reach a larger consumer base.

Campaign Strategy

Consumer Targets

Primary Consumer Target: Prepping Family

- Women aged 25-34 who do household shopping. They are either new parents or planning to be parents. These are lapsed consumers who have previously eaten cereal and are reentering the market to provide for their children. They use Facebook, TikTok or Instagram to consume media information. Their children's choice may influence their purchase decisions. They mainly live in the Midwest or South regions of the U.S. According to MRI Simmons¹⁸, the population of primary consumers reached 1,852,000.

Secondary Consumer Target: Cinna-Planners

- Men and women who are college students or recent graduates aged 18-24. This group is still planning their lives, and uses social media, especially Instagram, TikTok and Facebook frequently. They also prioritize family. They typically live in the Midwest or South. According to MRI Simmons, the population of secondary consumers reached 4,058,000.

Campaign Strategy

Business Objectives

- The ultimate business objective of JuiceBox Media's campaign is to build consumer awareness and influence them during the consideration phase of the consumer life cycle so that Cinnamon Toast Crunch is at the top-of-mind when they buy their cereal, ultimately remaining loyal to the brand for the remainder of their lifetime. The objective is to increase sales of Cinnamon Toast Crunch by 7% in the next six months through the initiatives, as other CPG campaigns in the past have proven¹⁹ to do similarly in the cereal space.

Campaign Strategy

Competitive Advantage

- CTC's tangible advantage is its Cinna-milk effect (when the cinnamon off the cereal flavors the milk) as well as its nutrients compared to other cereal brands. Each serving of CTC has 16g of whole grains and only 12g of sugar. CTC's intangible advantage is its brand recognition. Many target consumers have used CTC in their childhood or have become familiar with the brand in other ways.

Unique Selling Proposition (USP)

- The unique selling proposition (USP) of CTC is its nutritional value and high emphasis to individual and family values. While other cereal brands tend to lack healthy components and are full of sugar, CTC is a whole-grain cereal and cares about your life and growth. CTC is also dedicated to promoting a world where every kid is happy and healthy.

Current and Desired Brand Personality

- CTC's brand personality is silly, warm-hearted, and connects to young children with the animated cinnamon-toast squares. The desired brand personality is similar, but also incorporates some more mature themes that can connect to older audiences who are the people actually pulling boxes of CTC off the shelves.

Product Differentiation

- As mentioned in the USP, CTC is a healthier cereal alternative compared to many other cereal brands. For example, CTC is a whole-grain cereal, where many other sugary cereals lack a healthy component.

Current and Desired Position

- The current logo and branding works well with JuiceBox Media's intentions and has been successful since CTC was established. However, our strategy will incorporate those mature themes to further our appeal towards older

Emotions and Values

- The emotions and values JuiceBox Media intends for consumers to perceive when looking at CTC are familial ties, togetherness, and love. JuiceBox Media wants to highlight the diversity of motherhood and families across the country.

Timing

Start and End of Campaign

- The campaign will align with key seasonal moments, such as back-to-school (August-September), holiday season (November-December), and National Cereal Day (March 7th) to maximize consumer engagement.
- Our target audience is mothers who do the primary shopping in their household and have young children. These mothers are generally highly aware during back to school season and will be more active and susceptible to advertising during that period of time.
- Additionally, both our target audience and secondary audience (college students/young adults) are active online during the holiday season as they are preparing to purchase gifts for the holidays and staying aware of current trends.

Days with More Emphasis

- JuiceBox Media's strategy strategically aligns with when our target audiences are most active online and consuming media, according to MRI Simmons
- Monday – Friday
- The campaign will focus on digital ads, social media engagement, and influencer content during the week - targeting:
 - Prepping Family Shoppers (aged 25–34), who engage with platforms like Facebook and Instagram most heavily during weekday mornings and early afternoons, often while managing family routines or during work breaks.
 - Cinna-Planners (aged 18–24), who exhibit high weekday usage of TikTok and Instagram, especially in the late afternoon and evenings as they scroll between classes or after part-time work.
- MRI Simmons data shows that over 66% of Prepping Family Shoppers use Facebook, and over 76% of Cinna-Planners use Instagram, both favoring quick-scroll, snackable content formats during the weekday grind. This supports a heavier weekday media push.

Timing

Days with More Emphasis

- Saturday – Sunday
- On weekends, we'll shift emphasis toward fun, interactive and experience-driven content across platforms.
- We'll roll out TikTok challenges, brunch-themed Instagram Reels, and influencer-led stories centered on family time, self-care mornings and weekend rituals.
- These formats are particularly effective on TikTok, which is more actively used by our Cinna-Planners during downtime hours over the weekend.
- Why it works: Simmons reports show that weekend digital engagement tends to spike in leisure categories - particularly for Gen Z and Millennial users seeking entertainment, food ideas and lifestyle content. Pairing this with CTC's identity as a nostalgic and family-friendly cereal makes weekend storytelling a strong conversion opportunity.

Time of Days with More Emphasis

- Morning (6 AM – 10 AM)
- Push traditional breakfast messaging through TV spots, YouTube ads and morning radio.
- Target prepping family shoppers during school drop-off and breakfast time.
- Afternoon (2 PM – 5 PM)
- Reach after-school snackers and casual browsers
- Deploy scroll-friendly social media ads (Instagram Reels, TikTok videos) and gaming platform integrations (Snapchat filter activations).
- Late Night (8 PM – 12 AM)
- Appeal to college students and young adults who snack late while studying or relaxing.
- Heavy investment in TikTok, streaming ads (Netflix/Hulu pre-rolls) and meme-driven digital content.

Regions

- The campaign will have a national presence, with increased emphasis in key markets where cereal consumption is highest.

Midwest Region

- Heavy representation of both Prepping Family Shoppers and Cinna-Planners.
- Facebook and Instagram usage is strong among young families (66.46% Facebook usage for primary consumers). Midwest states show above-average consumption of traditional breakfast foods, including cereal.

South Region

- Significant population of family-oriented households and emerging young adult planners. TikTok usage among Cinna-Planners is rising (50.31%), and the South region ranks among the fastest growing TikTok user bases.
- Higher reported media consumption across both traditional and streaming platforms (Netflix, ESPN, local radio).

Major Metropolitan Areas

- New York (high streaming penetration, diverse young adult demographic)
- Los Angeles (cultural trendsetting city, especially for TikTok and Instagram)
- Chicago (central Midwest hub, strong cereal consumption rates)
- Dallas (fastest growing metro area for family-focused digital media engagement)
- Atlanta (diverse family and college-aged audience, strong Instagram and TikTok presence)

Allocation

- Based on MRI Simmons data, both of the campaign's core audiences - Prepping Family Shoppers and Cinna-Planners - demonstrate high levels of engagement across digital and streaming platforms, with over 70% of primary and 81% of secondary consumers using Netflix and significant time spent on TikTok, Instagram and Facebook. These media consumption habits reflect a strong preference for mobile-first, on-demand content, justifying a heavy investment in digital platforms that meet them where they already are.

Allocation

- Social Media & Influencer Marketing (40%)
 - Heavy investment in TikTok, Instagram, YouTube and Facebook to reach both audiences through short-form, high-engagement content. Influencers will help personalize and humanize brand messaging.
- Streaming & Digital Video Ads (30%)
 - Placements on Hulu, Netflix, YouTube, and Twitch - targeting both morning family routines and late-night snacking behavior among students.
- Traditional TV & Radio (15%)
 - Strategic national buys on family-friendly channels and talk radio to reach digital "stragglers." NYT Sunday readers and ESPN/Nickelodeon viewers still represent 10 - 17% of both target segments.
- Retail & In-Store Promotions (10%)
 - In-store displays and partner promotions at high-traffic retailers (Target, Walmart) will bridge the digital experience with point-of-sale conversion.
- Experiential & PR (5%)
 - Investment in immersive stunts, event pop-ups, and PR activations that create organic buzz and reinforce brand presence at major cultural touchpoints.

- Stephen Curry is an NBA all-star who would gain the attention of multiple age, racial and socioeconomic demographics. His wife, Ayesha, is a bit of a cooking influencer who captures the attention of many other hard working moms and wives. They are also not involved in any major controversy that would deem them poor candidates to collaborate with.

Advertising Opportunities

- Advertising and rebranding on Instagram and TikTok will help bring millennial and later Gen Z consumers to the page and establish a stronger brand personality that engages with a browser audience. This will be done through present-day trends in videos that are not targeted toward young tweens and teens.
- Establishing a stronger presence on Facebook will make prepping family shoppers and cinna-planners more likely to engage and send questions/feedback/concerns to CTC.

Public Relations Strategy

Social, Cultural, Environmental, and Ethical Considerations

- To ensure success, the campaign should highlight a diverse variety of Prepping Family Shoppers and Cinna-Planers. This way, JuiceBox Media can eliminate potential backlash and controversy.
- mothers with a variety of marital statuses (e.g. single parents, co-parents, non-traditional family structures)
- Races
- Socioeconomic classes and household dynamics
- Geographic settings (urban, suburban, and rural)
- The rising cost of groceries in the United States could also impact the success and/or failures of the campaign. This may cause shoppers to sway toward cheaper alternatives that are not CTC. However, charity partnerships may encourage target audiences to stay loyal to the CTC brand.

“Predator Session”

- Health-conscious parents or planners may be seen as a threat if they are open to discrediting the campaign via social media. This may be detrimental if there are influencers with high followings who speak out against the campaign. There may also be unintentional and/or intentional threats from other cereal brands, like Kellogs brand cereals, initiating similar campaigns. For example, competitors may discredit our campaign by disputing our nutritional values and intentions. JuiceBox Media plans to emphasize that Cinnamon Toast Crunch gives the best of both worlds, providing a delicious and whole grain-filled breakfast, with less sugar in a single serving of CTC than an orange.

PR Plan

Impact Media

- The timing for the impact shows centers around its actual show time and targets' possibility of enjoying the media with family. The plan aims to leverage consistency brand presence like Billboards or product placement with event related exposure.

- Billboard in 50 markets is spread consistently throughout the year for continuous exposure. The impact media intends to maintain brand presence across different markets.
- The media plan for Grammys heavily focuses on February because it represents the show's peak interest. Some placements in January can build anticipation and set the stage for the main event.
- A single placement of major motion pictures in June shows integration with a specific film release and the summer break. This could also be a strategic product placement tied to a summer blockbuster.
- Major Music Awards Integration happens in September, so the plan aims to correspond with the event's timing with some small circulation in August to generate early buzz.
- With Prestige TV/Streaming and Cable TV placements in July and August, the plan may collaborate with new season releases or show premieres to help build family time during summer break.
- The plan places NBA Playoffs/Championships from April to June to achieve higher viewerships during the peak playoff and championship season.

- Traditional media's approach is to reach target consumer "stragglers" – those who are unlikely to be reached through our emphasis on digital media. Because of that, it only makes up around 15% – $3.1 million – of our budget.
- Although the majority of our target and secondary consumers maintain a strong digital presence, we wanted to spend around 15% of our total budget reaching traditional media outlets that are likely to be used by at least 10% of our target audience and, ideally, the same percentage of secondary audience.
- Focus on two primary national TV outlets and two print outlets.
- 10.09% of our target audience read the New York Times Sunday edition in the past 30 days, with 11.5% of our secondary audience also reading the NYT Sunday Edition.
- 17.65% of our target audience watched Nickelodeon shows in the past 30 days, with 9.5% of our secondary audience also watching the shows.
- Just under 10% of both audiences read People Magazine.
- Likewise, between 11-12% of our audiences watch ESPN talk shows.
- Our traditional media spending peaks in line with the start of the school year in August, September and October with 16, 12 and 9 GRPS, respectively. It remains steady around 9 GRPS throughout the rest of the first semester, peaking at 8 GRPS in January as students return from the winter holiday and dwindling to 0 as the school year enters the summer.

Social Media Plan

Recommendations

Budget Recommendation

- JuiceBox Media will allocate 65% of our overall media budget to paid social executions.
- JuiceBox Media believe this is sufficient because both target audiences use social media as their main platforms for entertainment, information, and

Platform Recommendation

- Facebook, TikTok, Instagram, Snapchat
- These platforms are the most frequently used by our primary target and secondary audiences
- Facebook = used by 66% of women aged 25-34 with children and/or expecting children, as well as 52% of university students aged 18-24 that prioritize family
- TikTok = used by 50% of university students aged 18-24 that prioritize family
- Instagram = used by 53% of women aged 25-34 with children and/or expecting children, as well as 76% of university students aged 18-24 that prioritize family
- Snapchat = used by 68% of university students aged 18-24 prioritizing family
- Pinterest and X (formerly Twitter) - will not be using
- Their allocations in media plan are minimal and not a worthwhile investment for social media content creation
- Pinterest = used by 32% of women aged 25-34 with children and/or expecting children, as well as 28% of university students aged 18-24 that prioritize family
- X = used by 11% of women aged 25-34 with children and/or expecting children

Key Elements

Creative Brief

- Family-oriented brand image, collaborating with family-oriented influencers, minimizing the animated CTC character squares
- Keeping the colorful text and logo to appeal to children
- Adapting a focus on parental roles in a child's breakfast journey
- Collaborations with mom-influencers (i.e., Ayesha Curry) appeal to parents.
- Especially moms, since they statistically do the most grocery shopping in the U.S.

Adaptation to Platforms

- TikTok, Instagram, Facebook - use video/reels features, brand collaborations and sponsorships, high followings from influencers/celebrities usually correlate between these three platforms
- Snapchat - CTC filter

Paid Ad

- Collaborations will be posted on platforms on a weekly or biweekly basis and occur for a prolonged period of time.
- Ex: weekly Instagram Reel/TikTok with Ayesha Curry showing the audience a new recipe she made using CTC products.
- Ex: Feeding America collaboration highlighting our partnership, donation per box purchased

Owned Accounts

- Vary in creativity, try to attract audiences in a more direct and memorable way
- Social media posts that promote the CTC scholarship for our cinna-planner audience through photo posts and video promotions.
- Application will be linked in all major social media bios
- "A Crunch Closer to..." catchphrase with ideals appealing to target audiences (ex: "A Crunch Closer to Easier Mornings")

Change Requirement

- Instead of just showing crazy crunches, the tone would be both caring and fun, portraying specific scenarios centering around family moments and values.
- Ex: Image of a mother walking out of the house with her child and the catch phrase, “A Crunch Closer to Easier Mornings”
- Ex: Image of Cinna-square “chilling out” as a celebration for summer vacation, appealing to families who are about to enter back to school time

Rationale

- Higher spending levels and more activity around back-to-school season
- Mothers and college students are shopping and stocking the kitchen for weeks
- Another high spending level and more activity around the new year - time when mothers and college students are getting back into routine after a holiday/vacation time

Success Measurement

- Engagement with the public (and target audience) will be assessed through analytic tools within each app
- Since CTC accounts are business accounts, these tools will be easily accessible and help us see the demographics of the audiences seeing our content
- We can track progress based on how these demographics change throughout the campaign and during our busy seasons (back to school time)

Partnership

Current Partnerships

- Current General Mills partnership with Kelce Brothers
- Continuing on trend of sports, but trying to connect with the entire family rather than just the population of the home who watches sports (Ayesha has her own cooking line - appeals to mothers and women)

About: The Curry's

- Ayesha Curry: Main Collaborator
- Canadian-american actress and NBA wife
- Currently owns her own skincare and cookware lines
- Ayesha and her husband (Stephen Curry) are known to donate to nonprofits, such as Eat, Learn Play, which aims to provide nutritious meals and academic resources to children in need
- No known problematic behaviors that could impact the brand image of CTC
- Stephen Curry: NBA Player, Golden State Warriors
- Known to donate to nonprofits with Ayesha
- No major scandals that would put his wife's brand image or the CTC brand image in jeopardy
- Stephen and Ayesha Curry & possibly Curry Kids - align with both target and secondary audiences as they are a well-known inspirational family and Stephen Curry is a popular athlete among college students
- "Cooking with the Curry's"

Cinnamon Toast Crunch Launches Initiative to Battle Food Insecurity: Crunch for a Cause

MINNEAPOLIS – Cinnamon Toast Crunch (CTC), a favorite cereal brand among American households, is taking a stand against hunger through their new initiative, Crunch for a Cause, the company announced Monday.

Crunch for a Cause will donate a percentage of every CTC box purchased to Feeding America, an organization that supports efforts to ensure children and families have access to nutritious food.

“Cinnamon Toast Crunch remains a staple in many households. But what many fail to realize is how many people lack access to our beloved cereal. It is time to change that,” said Jamie Bastian, Senior Manager of Global Communications at General Mills.

This initiative will additionally include a scholarship program, awarding ten college students $10,000 each, along with fundraisers and galas held featuring big names.

On social media, CTC will be increasing their customer interactions by rolling out exclusive merchandise giveaways, social media influencer takeovers, as well as a look at the behind-the-scenes production of CTC itself.

Creative Plan

Campaign Theme

- The big idea of the campaign is that CTC will bring everyone a crunch closer to upholding their personal and familial values through our various collaborations, scholarship and donations.

Selling Premise

- The selling premise is CTC's nutritional value and high emphasis on your individual and family values. While other cereal brands tend to lack healthy components and are full of sugar, CTC is a whole-grain cereal and cares about your life and growth.

Unifying Elements

- The unifying element of the campaign is "A Crunch Closer to the things that matter". The goal of the campaign is to recognize the transformative place in their lives that our target audiences find themselves in and remind them of the role that CTC plays in their lives and promote family values. CTC recognizes that 'family values' mean different things to different people, and that's what makes "A Crunch Closer" such a powerful tool for this campaign.
- For those who already have kids "A Crunch Closer to an Easy breakfast" or "A Crunch Closer to the first day of school" emphasizes the role that CTC plays in bringing those families together and being a part of every morning. But it's also adaptable to promote the wider values of the brand, bringing target consumers "A Crunch Closer" to what matters to them - be it "A Crunch Closer to solving food insecurity" or "A Crunch Closer to gameday", CTC aims to be a unifying force in family dynamics to bring people together.

Target Audience

- The primary target audience is Prepping Family Shoppers, women aged 25-34 doing household shopping and secondary audience is Cinna-Planners, who are college students aged 18-24 planning for their lives.
- The message emphasizing “closer to things that matter” would exhibit senses of connection and belongingness. Regarding the primary targets - CinnaPlanners - the message cares about their individual values and efforts they make to their families. The message wants to tell them CTC knows their contribution and commitment to a closer relationship. Similarly, the secondary audience seeking for a planned life also cares about closer connection with people, society and the world around them. The message and values CTC conveys would greatly appeal to the target audience and leave a great impression on their diverse trajectories of life.

Unique Properties

- The campaign emphasizes each individual family’s needs and values, hence our slogan “A Crunch Closer to the Things that Matter.” For example...
- Partnering with Feeding America shows our commitment to making CTC accessible for all children (A Crunch Closer to Food Security).
- “A Crunch Closer to Earlier Mornings” aims to highlight the role of parents/guardians in a child’s morning and breakfast routine, while also advertising for parents to purchase CTC for the back-to-school season.

Brand Personality

- The creative connects CTC with all of our target audience. Most of the current media advertising targets younger Gen Z and children. JuiceBox Media’s new creatives keep some of the original silliness of the brand while also tailoring some of the more original multimedia platforms (print, television, broadcast) toward the older end of our cinna-planners and prepping family shoppers.

Appendix

TV commercials

- The intended audience of the first commercial is both our target and secondary audiences (soon to be mothers and college students) but also general individuals who may be watching TV. The advertisement highlights the variety of people who can eat and enjoy Cinnamon Toast Crunch. Our target audience would pay attention to this message because they are a demographic that is featured and Cinnamon Toast Crunch is seen as the product that solves the problem.
- Our second commercial is geared towards all individuals watching TV, but specifically connects to the emotions of our target audience. Generally, mothers are caring individuals who appreciate good deeds and giving back. This commercial highlights our initiatives to give back to those facing hunger needs.

TV commercial - 1

- Description: This commercial intends to appeal to all audiences, beyond our target and secondary audiences with the intention to convey the message that everyone can connect over a bowl of Cinnamon Toast Crunch. No matter your background, the time of day, or activity, we can all share and connect over a crunchy bowl of Cinnamon Toast Crunch.

 Scene 2 An older couple discussing what to eat for breakfast over a large kitchen island	 Scene 4 Tween age boys running back home from sports practice, sweaty and hungry	 Scene 6 End scene of campaign main message

TV commercial - 2

- Description: The goal of this commercial is to show Cinnamon Toast Crunch's dedication to the "things that matter" in line with the "Crunch Closer to the things that matter" campaign. This specific commercial will drive home the brand's commitment to donating a portion of their proceeds to Hunger for America and solving food insecurity in America.
- Opening: A child is handed a bowl of CTC cereal in milk as upbeat, wholesome music starts to play
- CUT TO: a box of cereal in a food pantry. A man distributes the box to people in need. A voice narrates, "More than 47 million people in the US face hunger, including 1 in 5 children."
- CUT TO: a truck full of CTC branded products and non-perishable goods dropping off food outside of a food pantry. Narration: "But Cinnamon Toast Crunch is dedicated to making a difference."
- CUT TO: A bunch of happy people and adults eating CTC together. Fade in a logo: "A Crunch Closer to the things that matter" ... the "things that matters" portion fades out to be replaced by "A Crunch Closer to food security"

A CRUNCH CLOSER TO FOOD SECURITY

Print Media

- Print media will be tailored more toward the parents and older members of our target audiences. The print advertisements will be used to show CTC's commitment to family values, encouraging parents (especially moms) to engage and make purchases with the CTC brand.

Billboard

- "A Crunch Closer to home"
- Billboard on a highway/near an exit, assuming people that drive past would be closer to home as they pass the board

Social media Content

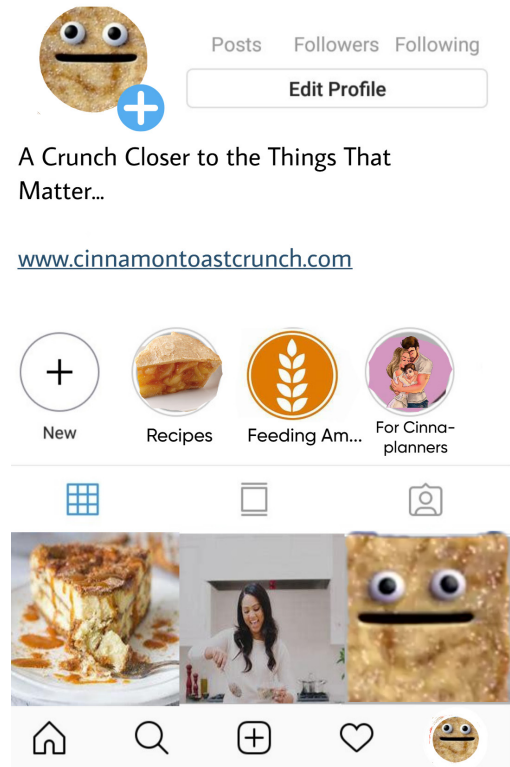

- Social media will be used as a way to connect with the younger end of our target audiences (mainly cinna-planners). The audience would pay attention to our snapchat filters and instagram posts to keep up with promotions, events and donations.

Facebook

- The intended message of our Facebook post is that CTC understands the importance of Back to School readiness. We hope to target prepping family shoppers in this messaging and also by using an older social media site that is primarily used by millennials and older Gen Z. The audience would pay attention as it is around that time where parents are figuring out what to buy for the Back to School season. We will be announcing our donations to Feeding America around this time as well.

Instagram

- Instagram will be used to connect with a majority of our target audiences (all of Gen Z and millennials) since it is a large platform that is used by many in that age group. People will pay attention to our activity on instagram because it will be the hub for announcing giveaways and deals, collaborations, events, etc.
